SUCCESS STORY

Utra is from Madhya Pradesh, India and migrated to Jammu and Kashmir Since she was very small. She is just 14 years old and is the 4th child in the family. Her mother is used to wash utensils in other home for earning money and father is working as daily wage labor. She comes from a background, in which female education is considered sinful, and she had to overcome incredible obstacles in order to complete her formal education. The society and her parents always expect from her to look after her younger siblings in their absence, when they went to work. And always refuse to send her to school for perceiving education. She had to face the objections of her family, and challenge repressive societal expectations, in order to create an independent identity for herself and for her other sisters.

She stood against her parents' decision and decided to go to school. But she has no economical support from that she can study and get quality education. She heard about Sunrise Educational Trust from her neighborhood children. She came and told the whole story to the founder trustee of the trust.

All the teachers praise her and support her. They went to meet with her family and ask them about the problem. In initial days her parents were not agreed to send her to school but after so many counselling days finally SET India succeeded to bring her to school. Not only to her but also bring her other two sisters in the school. These girls are doing great in academics fields and we wish they may succeed in her life. SET India wishes that every girl should have courage like the Utra who stands and fights for her dream.
